WEATHER FORECAST

Weather conditions will remain fair as we continue our journey to the Tsugaru Straits. Winds will be generally out of the south less than ten knots. Combined seas and swells will be at a meter or less. Passage of Tsugaro Straits should bring an increase in clouds and a chance of rain due to an occluded front centered over the straits. Current satellite images indicate that the fog may hold off a couple more days. Within a day or two after departing the Tsugaro Straits sea temperatures will decrease to about 48 degrees with the air temperature following the same trend.
